

Mohammed Tawfik MOULINE was born on the 4th, April 1952 in Rabat. He graduates from the Paris Polytechnic School in 1974 and got a degree also from the Paris Mining School in 1976.

He started his professional career at the "Office Chérifien des Phosphates" and at the "Société Nationale de Sidérurgie". In 1979, he joined the Prime Minister cabinet, where he contributed to the assessment of public organizations and companies. Between August 1982 and June 1995, he held various positions within the ONA Group: Director of Studies and Development until 1989, Director General of Financial Sector and of the holding "Financière Diwan" from 1990 to 1995, Director General of Telecommunication and Information System Pole from 1992 to 1994.

Between July 1995 and June 2003, he was designated Director of Studies and Financial Forecasts at the Ministry of Economy and Finances. In July 2003, he has been nominated at the Royal Cabinet, as in Charge of Mission, where he carries out strategic studies and future oriented thoughts. Member of the editorial committee of the 50 Years of Human Development report, he led the elaboration of the transverse reports on Morocco's 2025 prospects and the Benchmark of Morocco with a sample of 14 emerging countries.

In August 2007, he has been appointed Director General of the Royal Institute for Strategic Studies, institution whose main mission is to contribute to the enlightenment of Morocco's major strategic options.

Mohammed Tawfik MOULINE is the author of various studies published in national and international academic journals.

He was the Chairman of the Moroccan Foresight Association from 1999 to 2004. Mr. MOULINE is the Honorary President of the Moroccan Association of Regional Science and a member of scientific committee of several institutions.